NATURE OF BUSINESS

Avnet Abacus is a pan-European distributor of interconnect, passive, electromechanical, power supply and battery products. Our widespread local presence means that you get the product choice, financial strength, logistics and fulfillment benefits that you would expect from a global distributor, with the personal service and regional presence of a local supplier.

Our extensive product range and industry leading supplier linecard is supported by our team of over 56 product specialists based across Europe, ensuring that our customers receive the highest level of product, service and technical expertise available. These product specialists work with the customer at the system level, integrating the components and assemblies we supply into a solution that meets and exceeds the design brief.
